APK basketball summer camp is important in fostering a community

By Marshall Tempest
Apopka Chief Staff

Apopka is a city that revolves around youth sports and always has, and I feel like it's important to highlight those who go out of their way to give back to our community. Over the next few weeks, most of my stories will focus on youth sports and those in charge of youth sports. This week I talked to Apopka High School basketball's head coach Scott Williams about a summer basketball camp that he has been doing since 1991.

Williams told me that 33 years ago in the summer of 1991, he was at Eustis High School as a young basketball coach and came up with the idea of a summer camp. He said he started that year using some of the Eustis players as "coaches" for the younger campers. Ever since then Williams has done it everywhere he has been and he says it's because it accomplishes so much for the community.

"Every place I've gone I've felt like it's an avenue that accomplishes a handful of things. One, it connects to the young kids in our area and avails our program and its resources to them. And through our program (Apopka basketball) it also serves as a fundraiser," said Williams.

Williams explained that the Apopka basketball program is very much self-sustaining and doesn't ask its players to provide any compensation for being in the program. This of course comes with expenses. Expenses that can be helped with fundraisers like this summer camp.

"You know we do not charge our young men for any aspect of our program (Apopka basketball), whether it be summer, whether it be travel, whether it be during the season, we just want to be self-sustaining, and our camps and the proceeds from it are very important," said coach Williams.

But he says there is always a sort of – hidden blessing that comes along with doing these camps as well.

"The last thing is just the immense value that our players get out of learning how to give back (to their community), and learning how to integrate into the lives of these young men and women that come to camp. And that's kind of the hidden blessing of it all really,"

The camp has grown a lot, and fast, since its inception with Williams telling me that in his first year at Wekiva in the basketball

First session of Apopka's basketball camp is a success

By Marshall Tempest
Apopka Chief Staff

The Apopka High School basketball team is once again running its summer basketball camp program at Apopka High School's Joe A. Sterling Gymnasium. The camp, which is run by head coach Scott Williams, is a great outlet for local kids in Apopka to learn and grow their game surrounded by those who love the game as well.

Williams told me he's been doing this summer basketball camp wherever he has been for over 30 years now and that it's something he and his players look forward to. He went on to say that every year the kids always like the player coaches the most and laughed.

The camp is structured in a group and team format based on age and level of skill. Williams told me that kids ages 10-13 are in the NBA league and kids ages 7-9 are in the NCAA league. Each league has a few teams or groups with one or two varsity or junior varsity players as their coaches while Williams and the rest of the coaching staff looked over the drills, officiated scrimmages, and kept score.

Williams said that the day usually starts with layups, free throws, and after that, drills of some sort. He told me that this year they maxed out the camp at around 60 kids a session.

The first session started this week and the second session coming up after is already sold out.

The camp runs Monday-Thursday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. and is as fun as it is competitive. From the campers to the player coaches, everyone on the floor is competitive. The kids are competitive with each other as are the player coaches whose teams are facing one another.

The scrimmages are where things got fun. Williams's biggest thing is teaching the younger kids how to play the right way.

In an age of one-on-one, or even one-on-five, basketball highlighted by dribble moves and difficult shots - Williams focused on teaching team basketball forcing passing into the kid's game.

Williams mandated three passes before a shot on the basket and was not very lenient on the rule. In multiple games, across all of the groups, players' baskets were voided because of the lack of passing. Another huge element Williams was trying to impress upon the kids was movement, especially off-ball movement. Throughout the entirety of the scrimmages, Williams directed players who were sitting still waiting for the ball to keep moving and look for an open look or to be an outlet for their teammate when in trouble.

More than anything though, Williams said the biggest thing he hopes the kids walk away with from camp is fun and hopefully the drive to want to get better at the game.

Wekiva basketball looks to improve over summer

By Neal Fisher
Apopka Chief Staff

Perhaps training taking place during the summer months is of the most value. The process of righting the end of the previous season for basketball teams begins with participating in summer leagues and/or camps.

The Wekiva Mustangs' most recent season ended during the first round of the District 6A-6 championship tournament and with a disappointing record of 5-18. Nobody returned from the 2022-23 team which advanced to the Class 6A state final-four.

"General goal of participating in summer leagues is determining the strengths and what areas need to be worked on," Mustangs coach Gersino

Lubin said. "Fundamentals are worked on as a team. Play is without restrictions because there is no damage if a mistake is committed. So, freedom in order to showcase strengths and where fit in is the biggest difference from the regular season."

Only two of the players on last season's team have graduated. Transferring to another school is always an option for the players as well.

"Several players are expected to return after gaining the first experience of playing at the varsity level," Lubin said. "There is a strong possibility new faces will be in the main rotation next season as well."

"All four walls don't necessarily need to be torn down when renovating a house. Nor does a team necessarily need to rebuild because of significant personnel turnover. Nonetheless, Wekiva is still renovating from the 2022-23 team. Character and make-up were more defined at the end of last season but continue to be a work in progress."

The Mustangs are competing in four leagues/camps this month. Improving last season's record is the product of furthering skills development.

List of camps participating in is made up of Fellowship of Christian Athletes at Lake Brantley High School (June 11-13), the Villages High School (June 14-15) and the Florida Association of Basketball Coaches (June 28-29). Twenty contests in total

Wekiva's 2024 track season was 'a success' says coach Taylor

By Neal Fisher
Apopka Chief Staff

The mission of establishing the foundation for future success was set this past season by the Wekiva Mustangs women's track and field team.

Number of entries qualifying under the Mustangs' banner for the Class 4A state championship meet was only two. However, when taking into account the youth and inexperience, coach Donette Taylor considered the 2024 season, "a success."

Each athlete advancing through the postseason was a freshman or sophomore.

"Then advancing was achieved while competing against upper classmen (junior and seniors), further proof of a successful season," Taylor said. "Freshman and sophomores aren't supposed to advance during the postseason because of the difference in physical maturity, let alone place and score at the state championship meet."

There are three levels/meets of postseason competition for the sport of track and field, district, region and state. In order to advance to the region from the district, then from the region to state championship meets, athletes must place no worse than fourth. Entries placing up to eighth earn team points.

"We competed well at the state championship meet and finished the season with a solid performance in itself," Taylor said. "A solid finish to the season is always a goal. not just the state championships meet. Even more so, a solid performance ending one season carries into the next season. Not just the state championship meet, the entire postseason when

Colbie Cagle catches 10 bass weighing in at more than 40 pounds

Hello Folks,

I don't want to sound like a broken record but we need some rain.

Our lakes are very low and some much-needed rain would be awesome right now. I'm sure you have noticed it as much as I have and it's brown everywhere you look. So, keep your prayers goin' for some rain.

The fishin' has been kinda good most weeks. Rick and his brother-in-law Greg Fugate from Kentucky finished their week of fishin' and the best lake they fished was the Butler Chain. They fished there two times and caught 30 to 40 bass each trip. They fished the Harris Chain and only caught four bass, and Johns Lake and only caught five bass. Rick reported that Johns Lake was full of hydrilla and was topped out at least 30 to 40 yards offshore. I believe with the lower lake levels and the grass toppin' out, those ole bass have moved to deeper water for the summer.

If you go bass fishin', look for changes in the water temperatures. The bigger bass like cooler water, movin' water, and deeper water durin' the summer. Just a few degrees in water temperatures may help you find some bass. So, don't be like the angler that says we caught'em here last time. Try different approaches to your bass fishin' and you may be surprised by findin' new areas, and new ways to fish.

Jim Keck
Goin' Fishin'

The American Bass Anglers held a two-day tournament on the Harris Chain. Congrats to Colbie Cagle who won the two-day event last weekend. Colbie weighed in 10 bass that hit the scales at 44.27 pounds. He also caught an 8.01 big bass that gave him an additional $500. Colbie also cashed a check for $10,000 for the win. Also, congrats to our own Bobby Bakewell on his second-place finish. Bobby weighed in 10 bass that hit the scales at 42.96 pounds. He also caught a 7.9 pound big bass to help him finish second. Bobby cashed a $4,500 check for his second place finish.

If you want to catch some panfish, the season is just about over. We have a new moon this week and this weekend should wrap up the bluegill and shell-cracker season. I'm not sayin' you can't go catch'em, it's just gonna be a little slower than it was last month with the full moon. If you do go, make sure you get some red worms, crickets or catch you some grass-shrimp and see if they are bitin'.

You know, we catch a-lot of specks durin' the cooler months of the year. You can still catch some specks durin' the summer, but they are in the deepest parts of the lake you like to fish. Most folks like to fish with a jig tipped with a minner. The jig gets down to the bottom quicker, and once it hits bottom, just reel up your line so the jig and minner are just off the bottom. If there are any specks in the area, they will locate your bait and then it's time to catch'em.

Also, with summer gettin' here, make sure you take along plenty of Gatorade and water to keep yourself hydrated while you are fishin'. You need to wear long-sleeve shirts and put your sunscreen on so you don't get sunburned. I've started wearing long pants to fish in so my legs don't get sun-burned. If you do like to wear shorts, make sure to put some sunscreen on your legs durin' the day. Once the sun gets up, I like to wear a straw hat and a bluff on my face. The bluff covers up my face and my ears and my neck. I feel like the straw hat allows air to flow through my hat and that helps keep me cool.

Well, I hope you get a chance to do some fishin' this week, and I'll see ya next week.

Tip of the week: Stay hydrated

Save a few and good luck!

Mustangs: Scoring is first, foremost will be played by the Mustangs.

"We have good chemistry," Lubin said. "More so, the intensity on defense and go-to parts of our game are already established."

"The direction of the renovation is determined by the makeup and character though," Lubin said. "The definitive decisions about how the character and makeup can be best used specifically are made about a third of the way through fall practices, at the end of August, beginning of September. However, the process begins with participating in the summer camps during June. Coaches are evaluating and assessing the performances in a more general, but no less important context. Who can compete on a daily basis? Who is making improvements of a physical nature?

"First and foremost, scoring on a consistent basis will be evaluated during the camps and competition."

Lubin also decided to field two smaller teams during this offseason competitions. The teams will be made up of a combination of last season's varsity and junior varsity players.

"In the past, Wekiva fielded only one team larger team," Lubin said. The intention of two smaller teams is to ensure each player has enough time to demonstrate not just the capabilities possessed. Can the capabilities be executed on a consistent basis as well? Has the player learned how to apply the lessons AAU competition teaches?"

As of the first week in June, three seniors and four juniors are on the roster for the 2024-25 season.

Julius "Juju" Johnson took on role of face of the program last season as the starting point guard and most experienced player. Midway through the 2022-23 season, Johnson became the sixth man.

Joining Johnson on the roster as part of the lineup from last season are Darion Thomas, Louvens Saint-Pierre, Darius Holliday, Markel Anderson. Joshua Thornton and Andrew Riley.

I say ending."

Held on Saturday, May 18, the 4 X 400 meter relay team placed seventh at the state championship meet. The performance was the high point of Wekiva's overall team performance during the postseason. An eighth place finish by the 4 X 100 meter relay team at the state championship meet completed going two in as many opportunities to score points. Times of 3:57.85 and 48.15 were run by the teams and fastest of the season, respectively. Xia Scott, Amari Smith, Cebreeya Hicks, Soriah Hicks and Nevaeh Medley competed for the Mustang teams.

Wekiva scored a total of three points and more than 50 of the teams. Of the 98 teams with entries qualifying, 42 didn't score a point.

"Of course and again, logic is with another season of competition the results improve as individuals, another tangible measurement of the growth," Taylor said. "However, qualifying for the two events at state can be built upon as a track and field team too. The other individuals and relay teams have seen competing and placing at the state championship meet is possible. Most importantly, how to get to the state championship meet is seen and while physically maturing."

The 4 X 400 meter relay team also placed fifth at the Region 4A-1 championship meet with a time of 4:03.03.

Third place and a time of 47.78 seconds was posted by the 4 X 100 meter relay team at the Region 4A-1 championship meet.

"After getting a taste of competing at the state championship meet, logic dictates the athletes will be further motivated as well next season," Taylor said. "There was the excitement of qualifying to begin with. A higher level of confidence was developed. The meet ended with the excitement and confidence intensified by earning a medal though. Next season will be about the desire and hunger to return to the state championship meet. However, returning is now only the initial desire. Improving the result is the end goal. Excitement and confidence are a start but not capable of improving on the result alone. Like any activity, returning and improving on the result requires intensity of the effort during practices to increase."

Smith (100 meters), Medley (200 meters), Hicks (200 meters), Xia Scott (400 meters), Cedajah Bernadel (high jump) and Scott (long jump) also advanced to the Region 4A-1 championship meet.

Twelve points and 19th place were earned out of over 40 teams.

"We felt confident times would be competitive heading into the postseason because steadily dropped throughout the season," Taylor said. "Question was could we take the next step into placing. We did enough throughout the season to eventually earn top eight finishes and medals in two events, better than a lot of other teams. We found out placing seventh and eighth with two entries qualifying for the state championship team is achievable with consistent practices and preparations.

Claimed with times of 47.97 seconds (100 meters) and 3:56.88 (400 meters), District 4A-4 championships jumpstarted the relay teams drive to state medal status.

Mustangs: Team in a good place right now with returning players

“Most likely, we are somewhere in between the last two seasons,” Lubin said. “Two seasons ago, the team was as experienced as could be. Only two players had graduated from the previous season’s team. However, the players who graduated were the one and two point guards. Provided somebody could step into the point guard role, the team was capable of winning and even advancing into the state final four. Provided was removed as soon as the season began though. “The opposite situation existed at the start of last season. Point guard was the one position where a starter returned. Potential to replace what left with two players graduating existed. Possibility of taking on most of those roles was wide open. However, replacing is rarely as direct and as simple as one player taking over for the previous transaction. Last season was proof though. We never directly replaced on a consistent basis what was lost with the players who left. Perhaps most importantly as far as the Mustangs returning to the same level of success and having a foundation from which to work from, a precedent has been set. The 2022-23 team was built from the ground up as well. No players on the 2019-2020 team possessed experience playing at the varsity level. The 2019-2020 season was the first in which what would become the core of the 2022-23 state semifinalist played at the varsity level.

Mustangs: Wekiva also hosting a summer youth basketball camp

“Two seasons ago and as expected, the players with lots of experience made plays when contests are decided,” Lubin said. “Even though demonstrating the capability, the role was even more on the shoulders of last season’s group compared to the previous and still continues heading into the camps.”

Most training during the months of July and August are under the banner of the Amateur Athletics Union (AAU). Players do not officially represent and play for a high school team. Thus, the focus of making choices as far as a schedule is more of an individual nature.

Wekiva is also hosting its annual summer camp between the weeks of June 3-7 and 10-14.

Hours are from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m., with a lunch break at 11 a.m.

Instruction is delivered by the Mustang coaching staff and players.

“The camp is a can’t miss opportunity to give to the next generation, which has developed into a priority,” Lubin said. “Giving obviously refers to the players who will play for Wekiva. The goal of giving, providing a positive influence as a part of the campers’ life is in general though.”

The fundamental skills of passing, dribbling, shooting and footwork will be taught through various drills. Application of the fundamental skills are then applied to the development of the most specific components of basketball, such as ball-handling and proper shooting form. Agility and stretching, physical training is also addressed.

Campers are divided into groups based on age and/ or skill level. The groups move from station to station located throughout Mustang Arena. A fundamental skill is taught and practiced by the campers at each station.

After lunch, campers will participate in three-on-three and four-on-four contests.

“The camp is also an undemanding, nothing-at-stake means of exposure to basketball and athletics in general,” Lubin said. “Usually, a significant amount of the campers are experiencing basketball and athletics in general for the first time.

“Campers gain experience involving the more not as discernible aspects of basketball or even athletics in general. Relationships are one example. During the season, relationships are often not only basketball related. Players and coaches often spend more time together than with family during the season. The situation isn’t usually considered or thought until experienced because a more intricate piece of athletics.”

Basketball and camp T-shirts are provided for each camper. Campers should bring lunch, snacks, and beverages or money to buy those items.

Track: Improving diet and hydration will be a main focus

Also scoring points under the Mustang banner at the District 4A-4 championship meet was Smith (100 meters-second), Hicks (100 meters-sixth), Hicks (200 meters-third), Medley (200 meters-fourth), Scott (400 meters, second), Bernadel (high jump-fourth), Scott (long jump-third) and Ma’niah Phillips (long jump-eighth).

“Changing what we didn’t do was also a lesson learned though,” Taylor said. “The first change we need to make is improving diet and hydration. As is often lamented by coaches, the deeper into the postseason, the smaller the difference between winning and losing. In track and field, the smaller the difference between placing eighth and inside the top five or even three. The athletes will participate in AAU competition with me coaching during the offseason and get the repetitions needed to match seventh and eighth place next season.

TTO: Williams has watched campers turn into players program, their first summer camp had just nine campers, but by the next year they were in the 40s. Williams said that when he came to Apopka there was already a foundation for a summer basketball camp thanks to the previous coach Matt Ruta.

“But Matt also believed in the importance of the outreach of these camps, and they already had a solid camp operation and so we kind of came behind them and it built from their foundation,” said Williams.

Williams told me that for the last seven or eight years they have been doing two sessions every summer and that he and the program are so blessed as both sessions sold out this year.

“And it’s really just a credit to our kids and the word-of-mouth reputation that we have because we provide a really great camp for the money that we charge.”

Williams said that they haven’t had to raise the cost of the camp in five years and that he and the staff try to make it very worthwhile by providing four days of camp, a ball, and a t-shirt for just $100 which is very affordable compared to some summer camps or programs.

“We’re not trying to make a hardship on families, but rather make something that their children can do affordably and have a lot of fun.”

More than anything though Williams said the biggest reason he does the camp is the family aspect of it. From how the kids connect with each other, to how they connect with the player coaches, it really is its own community. Williams explained that campers and the families of campers will come to basketball games during the season and during the off-season as well as seeing the player coaches around town and remember their times at camp.

“They speak highly of them. It’s all about building a reputation that our program, first of all, works, our program earns money, our program works to give back, and that our program is serious about its commitment to the community,” Williams said about his players and the basketball program.

Williams told me that he has watched kids grow up through his camp and then become a part of the program when they reach high school.

“Out of our 20-some-odd player coaches this year, I think over half of them at one point or another were a little kid camper. And so, it’s really unique watching them come through the camp and experience it, and then all of a sudden to become part of our program down the road. It’s amazing to watch that happen. We’ve had some kids who have been in this camp for seven years. And then they become a part of our program. So, they’re like part of our extended family already,” Williams said when speaking on the journey of some of his campers.

Before our conversation was over Williams made sure to impress upon me, and to pass on, how much he admires the Apopka basketball players and their dedication to their craft and their community.

“I can’t say enough about the young men that play here and how they serve. You know the kids left camp yesterday and went and played in their summer league. So, we certainly could accomplish more basketball-wise if we weren’t doing camp – we could practice longer and do more to prepare. I think it challenges their physical, mental, and emotional toughness – but, I also feel like the benefits more than outweigh the challenges.
